The herbs and spices used regularly in cooking are all a complex mix of organic compounds. This poster highlights some of the major organic compounds found in each herb and spice that contribute to their flavour, aroma, or colour.