

WINDOWS

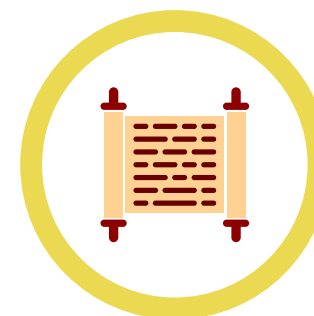

Argon is a poor conductor of heat and is used to fill the gaps between panes in double-glazed windows.

BULBS

Argon is often used as the inert gas in filament lightbulbs. It's also found in newer low-energy bulbs.

PRESERVATION

Historical documents are stored in sealed containers filled with argon to stop degradation by oxygen.